The objective of the Program:

1. To create awareness among students about the need for skill based learning
2. To highlight the areas where students can engage after college hours
3. To motivate them for experiential learning

Report:

In college, academic learning is only a portion of a student's overall education. True and effective learning takes place when students have the opportunity to apply their knowledge and gain hands-on experience. To facilitate this, first-year students were educated on the importance of field visits and internships. Professor Druv Kumar from the Commerce Department emphasized the value of "earn while you learn" and experiential learning, and highlighted various job opportunities and certification programs available to students. Additionally, he stressed the importance of add-on courses and certification programs offered by the college, which would enable students to obtain additional certificates alongside their academic transcripts.

The outcome of the program:

The session was very informative. Students were clear about their goals. They got clarity about field visits and internships. Further they requested for sessions of similar nature. Overall it was an interesting session.
