The objective of the Program:

Dr. Raghavendra P S has taken the session Emotional Intelligence. It was informative and interesting for the audience. He had explained Emotional intelligence, or EI, refers to perceiving, controlling, and evaluating emotions. Some researchers propose that emotional intelligence can be learned and strengthened, while others argue it is an inborn characteristic.

The ability to express and manage emotions is essential, but so is the ability to understand, diagnose, and react to the emotions of others. Imagine a world in which one could not understand when a friend felt sad or a classmate was angry. Psychologists refer to this knowledge as emotional intelligence, and some experts even suggest that it can be more significant than IQ in one's overall success throughout one's life. And also, he had given some tips on improving one's self-awareness on Emotional Intelligence.

The outcome of the program:

Audience came to know that distinguish emotional intelligence from other forms of intelligences, criticality of emotional intelligences in work, life and relationships, raise
