ABSTRACT

The Empowerment of Women has become one of the most important concerns of 21st century not only at national level but also at the International level. Women Empowerment will be real and effective only when they are endowed income and property so that they may stand on their feet and built up their identity in the society. Governments of various nations are tirelessly trying to promote education for womenfolk. There are clear indications that all the forces that conform to a society have been collectively supporting Empowering Women. However many diversities are blocking the ways to attain a complete gender unbiased society. There are good reasons to believe that Empowering Women helps Economic Development. Reducing discrimination in access to Education and the labour market would make better use of Women's skills and abilities. History shows that many a time women were treated as that of slaves. It was observed that right from the early 20th century the status of Women had been changing gradually. It is only after the Independence of India under the able leadership of Dr. Ambedkar, the Constitutional Makers and National Leaders strongly demanding and also reiterating the equal social position of Women with men. Gender discrimination in the Nation brings cultural, social, economic and educational differences which push the country back. The most effective remedy to kill such devils is making Women Empowered by ensuring the Right to Equality mentioned in the Constitution of India.

Introduction

In the early years of the women's rights movement, the agenda included much more than the just the Right to Vote. Their broad goals included equal access to Education and Employment, equality within marriage, and a married women's right to her own property and wages, custody over her children and control over her own body. Since the beginning of civilization, there has been bulk evidence of women being considered inferior to men. Almost every country, no matter how progressive has a history of ill-treating women. This has
