expect from each unit. The number of hours required for the preparation of both the papers was conveyed to the students, and at the same time the importance of sleep was also spoken about. Studying for more number of hours is good only unless it is not compromising ones' sleep.

The speaker then emphasized on the importance of updating oneself with current affairs. He suggested that the best way to be up to date with the current affairs is through regularly reading news papers for atleast 45 mins everyday. On asking his preference of newspaper he mentioned that the Hindu or Indian Express can be good for the purpose of education. He explained on how dedication and a never give up attitude are very important to clear any kind of competitive exams.

He also highlights the role of a psychologist in DRDO and how training can help one clear exams and get through DRDO. He spoke about the opportunities there and encouraged people to explore these fields and get into a career that would be respected. There were some questions during the q&a sessions which the speaker answered. It was a fun and learning session which students enjoyed and learned from.

Learning Outcome:

The session created an awareness on the different competitive exams suitable for the students in psychology and economics. Students were given a broad idea on how to start and dedicatedly prepare for the Civil service examination. They also learnt the benefits of clearing the competitive exams. They also understood how depending on just the media is not enough and multiple books, newspapers must be considered as the study material.
