Sanjay Sahay (talks about Digital Transformation, Digital Marketing, Brand Experience, Martech)

I have a proven track record, spanning over two decades, in reinventing the B2B marketing operating model and in building world-class digital marketing organizations that reimagine brand engagement.

I can help build the proverbial 'rocket on a sailing ship'. I start with bringing digital metrics to illuminate the results of ongoing marketing strategies, turning segmentation to micro targeting and partnering with the business (and the CMO) to make the relationship between current marketing investment and its impact - causal and clear. At the same time, through continuous experimenting with tight feedback loops and real time optimization, I help CMOs find the clarity to write out a new playbook, drive new digital engagement that draws buyers closer to the brand, and increase conversions online and offline. New ideas take off even as the ones already in motion get better! It helps that I am deeply networked with a global ecosystem of great agencies that can make the assimilation of this digital culture relatively swift and painless.
